Benjamin Franklin

A MAN FOR ALL TIMES

*American Jack
of All Trades*

Celebrate one of the greatest Americans, Benjamin Franklin, with the story of his life and its impact on money from the past to the present. Almost 300 years ago, Franklin, a printer by trade, printed paper money for the American colonies that incorporated some of the first anti-counterfeiting devices. He also designed coinage for the newly established United States.

Franklin today remains a symbol of wisdom and ingenuity with his portrait on the U.S. $100 note, but did you know that his portrait has appeared on many other items from around the world since his days as one of America's Founding Fathers?

Bring the story of Benjamin Franklin to your school, club or convention by reserving this exhibit from the ANA Money Museum today.
