Dealers who participate in coin shows are potential targets of numismatic predators. The following tactics and practices provide dealers and their employees with a basic safety plan that will help reduce the chances of becoming a numismatic crime victim.

SECURITY TACTICS FOR DEALERS ATTENDING COIN SHOWS

1. Take the time to learn about the show you will be attending and the area in which it is located.

2. Contact the bourse chairman to answer any additional questions such as location of loading and unloading areas (possible construction areas, road closings close to the venue, etc.).

3. If traveling by personal car, plan most direct route and determine any construction or choke points. (Contact State Police or State Transportation Department for this type of information.) Identify any potential weather issues that would cause travel problems. Determine if there are any cell phone dead spots along your route. Always be alert to suspicious vehicles.

4. Travel with someone and let a family member know your route and estimated time of arrival.

5. Inventory coins and leave a copy on home/office computer. (Downloading to a flash drive provides an additional layer of documentation.)

6. Upon arrival locate unloading area and make sure adequate security is in place while unloading/loading. Before exiting your vehicle look around for any suspicious persons, vehicles or activity.

7. Do not let cell phones distract you (texting and talking) while loading and unloading.

8. Once you have unloaded, do not park in a secluded parking lot or one that does not have adequate lighting after dark.

9. Always be alert to the surroundings when going to and from your vehicle. Do not use your cell phone during this time.

10. If you are arriving by air and taking a cab, shuttle or limousine to the show do not take your eyes off your bags until they are secured within the vehicle. In situations where you are using a shuttle stay at the rear until the last piece of luggage is loaded and then board. (Do not let any distraction cause you to take your eyes off of your bags.)

11. If possible, keep the most valuable bag in your possession.

12. Do not advertise you are a coin dealer and going to the coin show.

13. When you get to the show and exit the vehicle, be alert to the surroundings while your bags are being unloaded. (Do not let any distraction cause you to take your eyes off of your bags.)

14. Once inside the show, check-in and immediately put on your show credentials.

15. When you arrive at your table secure inventory behind table before you start arranging cases, lamps and chairs.

DO NOT LEAVE ANYTHING IN THE AISLE.

16. Identify who is on each side and behind you.

17. Do not let other dealers or early birds look at coins until set-up is complete. This will eliminate any distractions and maintains control of inventory.

18. Do not display more material than you can control.

19. Once set-up is complete take photos with your phone to document your presence at the show (for insurance and law enforcement purposes).

20. Take photos of individual cases (for insurance and law enforcement purposes).

21. Use extra cases on backup table to secure additional inventory, money bags and invoices.

22. Do not keep cash, invoices, checkbooks or itemized inventory listing in the same location.

23. Secure briefcases to backup table with cable locks.

24. If you occupy a corner table, make sure back-up inventory cannot be reached by customers.

25. Look around and locate all exits – emergency and non-emergency. Familiarize yourself with the entire room.
40. Always watch a person’s hands carefully.

41. Do not let customers place personal items on show case.

42. When showing raw coins watch hand movements for palming of coins. A person looking through a box may pull out several coins, hold them in the palm, and continue to look through the box.

43. Closely watch persons who pull out several coins, lay them out on the case, and continue to look through the box. This creates an additional distraction and allows for easy palming.

44. Be aware that suspects may work in pairs.

45. Remember there is no distinctive profile of what a thief looks like!!

46. When working in pairs the M.O is for one suspect to look at coins while the other one asks questions to create a distraction.

47. Do not let customers pull out their coins for comparison unless you are watching carefully. In some cases this could be used as a means of switching coins/paper money.

48. Do not turn your back to customers.

49. Be suspicious of persons asking unsolicited questions about your travel or value of inventory.

50. Never divulge to any person you do not know that you are traveling alone.

51. Utilize your cell phone camera/video to photograph/video and document suspicious persons.

52. Alert security of suspicious persons or activity on the bourse floor.

53. Distractions – Organized groups will often use distraction methods such as a person fainting, fake heart attack or dropping a small child to open a window of opportunity for an accomplice to steal while at your table.

54. Due to the quality of counterfeits, carefully evaluate all purchases from the public. (Suspects will try to sell counterfeits to dealers who are extremely busy, hoping they won’t take the time to carefully examine the coins.)

55. If you take a check for purchases, photograph check and identification (require two types of ID) with your cell phone camera. Carefully evaluate photo identification for quality and make sure the photo matches the person making the transaction (although be aware that good counterfeit ID’s will have matching photos). The address on the check and identification should match. Do not take post dated checks. If you are still suspicious, ask for other pieces of identification.

56. Immediately place large cash transactions in money bags and lock in showcase. Do not display stacks of cash in showcases.

57. If you need to leave your table, lock all cases and alert dealers next to you or in back that you will return shortly.

58. Develop and maintain a personal contingency plan: a). if traveling alone, keep a list of any medical conditions, medications and emergency contact numbers inside your wallet or purse b). If you have a medical condition that may be incapacitating, such as diabetes or epilepsy, make sure someone at the show is aware of a potential problem. c). Make sure a family member and a fellow dealer in attendance at the show know where you are staying d). Travel with adequate medications e). Identify someone at the show who can secure and take possession of your inventory in case of an accident or medical emergency.

59. When leaving the show at the end of the day do not carry large sums of cash or inventory.

60. Talk with security or show representatives to identify safe and unsafe venues within the area.

61. Take off all show credentials before leaving the building.

62. Do not talk about your business dealings in a public forum (restaurants, bars, etc.). Remember that there is no specific profile of what a coin thief looks like.

63. When carrying coins in a briefcase be alert in areas of congestion that may create an opportunity for theft (food lines, ticket lines, crowded subways, shuttles, elevators, etc.).

64. At the end of the show limit distractions while packing up. Make sure there is adequate security outside when loading. If making several trips to vehicle, have someone watch your table and leave the most valuable load for last.

65. When traveling by car don’t leave your vehicle unattended. Before driving off, check your vehicle for any possible tampering (low tires, leaking fluids, etc.).

66. Be cognizant of any suspicious persons or vehicles.

67. Do not be complacent; always be alert to your surroundings – DO NOT BE A VICTIM

It is advisable to GET SET-UP completely before allowing anyone to view coins at your table.
