

Board of Governors Meeting to be broadcast online

Governors to hold town hall about new website, will vote on 2017 show location

The American Numismatic Association Board of Governors will hold an Open Session and Town Hall during the Atlanta National Money Show on Friday, Feb. 28, in Room 113/114 at the Cobb Galleria Centre. The Open Session and Town Hall meeting will be broadcast online atMoney.org and NationalMoneyShow.com with a replay available immediately afterward on the ANA's YouTube channel. The meetings start at 3 p.m. EST.

The topic of the Town Hall, which starts immediately after the Open Session, is to present an update on the development of the new Money.org website, which includes implementation of a new Association Management Software system. Cole Schenewerk, the Board's Youth Board Intern, will give the presentation on behalf of the ANA Technology Advisory Committee, which is assisting the ANA staff with the implementation of the new technologies. A link to Schenewerk's presentation will be available before the meeting at Money.org/BOG. A question-and-answer session will immediately follow the presentation.

Members who cannot attend will be able to ask questions during the live meeting through Twitter (@ANACoins) and Facebook (Facebook.com/numismatics).

Agenda items include:

- A vote on the location of the 2017 National Money Show.
- Reinstate the award to recognize 60 years of membership.
- Naming the chairperson for the 2015 National Money Show in Portland.

The full agenda for the board meeting is online at Money.org/BOG.
