Our mission

The federally chartered American Numismatic Association (ANA), a nonprofit, educational organization based in Colorado Springs, Colorado, strives to inspire individuals of all ages to discover and explore the world of money. Committed to the coin-collecting hobby for more than a century, the ANA works to preserve the legacy of numismatics for future generations so all might learn and share the value of money in history, art, culture and society.

Each of the ANA's programs and services furthers its mission, from the world-class Edward C. Rochette Money Museum and Dwight N. Manley Numismatic Library to unequalled educational seminars, national conventions and award-winning publications. Read on to learn more about how the ANA enhances and perpetuates your hobby.
