ANA is Searching for Speakers

(Colorado Springs, Colorado) ANA's National Speakers Bureau is accepting new applicants who are interested in helping people discover and explore the world of money.

With the ever-increasing interest in numismatics, the American Numismatic Association is looking for additional people with prepared numismatic presentations who would like to be invited to share their expertise with others in their local community.

The National Speaker's Bureau (outreach@money.org) is available to assist schools, museums, civic organizations, Scout leaders, coin clubs and show organizers locate speakers for educational programs.

Interested presenters can obtain an application from ANA's Outreach Department or from the ANA website at www.money.org. (Select "Education" from the drop-down menu at "Explore the World of Money.")

The American Numismatic Association is a non-profit educational organization dedicated to educating and encouraging people to study and collect money and related items. With nearly 33,000 members, the Association services the academic community, collectors and the general public with an interest in numismatics. The ANA helps all people discover and explore the world of money through its vast array of programs including its education and outreach, museum, library, publications, conventions and seminars.
