(Colorado Springs, Colorado) Dealers who wish to be included in the American Numismatic Association official convention program book for the Charlotte National Money Show™, March 16-18 should have their bourse applications submitted to Meeting Services before the Jan. 31 deadline. Applications received after the deadline will be placed on a waiting list and processed on a space available basis.

The National Money Show™ is open to both ANA members and nonmembers, and admission is free (with valid photo identification). ANA conventions are family events and have activities for everyone from those with a casual interest in coins to advanced numismatic professionals.

"ANA member dealers should definitely want to be a part of the Charlotte show," said ANA Meeting Services Director Brenda Bishop. "The Charlotte Convention Center is a fantastic venue, and the city is easily accessible to collectors and dealers throughout the Southeast and Eastern Seaboard. We expect the show will attract thousands of people with an interest in coins, paper money, tokens and medals, history, investing and related areas."

Activities include a large "bourse," where hundreds of dealers sell everything from modern, rare and ancient coins and paper money to numismatic supplies and books. Also featured are a variety of educational workshops and seminars, as well as an entertaining and educational collector exhibit area, where members display their collections and compete for awards.

Heritage Numismatic Auctions, the event's official auctioneer, will conduct lot viewing and auction sessions throughout the week.

ANA host clubs for the Charlotte show are The Charlotte Coin Club, North Carolina Numismatic Association and South Carolina Numismatic Association.
